Your future your way

Unified in Separation

– a bespoke route to resolution

When you and your partner decide that your relationship has come to an end, and you are ready to formalise arrangements concerning your children or assets, it is possible to find a more amicable process to achieve this than going to court.

Initially, you may be unsure as to which method (or methods) of resolving your family's issues is best for you. You may want to find out more about the available options and discuss what pathway is most suitable for you and your family.

As a matter of course we offer an options and information meeting where we explore each of the available options with you, with a view to creating a tailored and bespoke way forward which best meets your needs. We will also discuss whether it would be beneficial to involve other professionals in the process, such as divorce coaches, family therapists, financial advisors or accountants.

It may be that what is best for you is a combination of processes and help from a range of professionals, and we will work with you to ensure that this truly collaborative approach can be achieved. You can attend alone or with your partner and neither of you are obliged to proceed should you not wish to do so.

Our approach is designed to help you achieve an outcome with minimal stress and anguish, which enables you to move forward and rebuild your future positively.
