

Managing your risks

Partner, Stewart Morrison, heads up our Procurement and Supply Chain team in Cambridge within the Dispute Resolution department. He works with both private and public organisations with a professional, hardworking and thorough approach.

Specialising in public procurement litigation, Stewart enjoys fast moving and academically taxing work and is able to quickly distil and explain difficult legal concepts thanks to his strong academic background. He also specialises in judicial review and other public law work as well as commercial dispute resolution.

Frank is known for his expertise in restructuring and insolvency with over 25 years' experience. He has been ranked by Chambers & Partners in Band 1 for 21 years for Restructuring/Insolvency in East Anglia. Similarly, Frank has been named in the Hall of Fame for Insolvency and Corporate in East Anglia by the Legal 500.

Frank's practice extends to advising all and any stakeholders of an innovation business which is affected by debt and insolvency concerns; whether it is the company itself that is having financial difficulties or whether it is a director, supplier, customer or investor's insolvency that has a knock on effect to the client's business.

How we can help:

- Advising you as to your legal position and the associated risks when a dispute arises
- Acting for you in pursuing or defending a claim both at the pre-action stage and through the court system
- Advising you on strategy for resolving disputes, taking into account the relevant risks and costs considerations
- Advising you and acting for you in protecting your intellectual property rights when they are under threat
- Advising you on your options if you or a company you do business with is in financial difficulty.
